Boundless Learning

Welcome to issue number 6 !

This is a chance to connect, share and pause. Please feel free to contribute, or reflect on the ways we work together. My mantra for this year is to greet the world with playful curiosity, so here I am.

Boundless Leadership

This half term I've been working with schools to develop whole school approaches to Supervision, as well as continuing with Supervision for leaders. I've also undertaken further Supervision training myself and joined a Reflective Supervision in Education Community of practice, we're committed to ensuring ethical standards for practice and supporting development for schools.

I've also continued to work with Cambridge Assessment International, supporting curriculum development and design.

As a Visiting Fellow for the Leicestershire and Rutland teaching school hub delivering NPQLT, this enables me to consolidate my own learning and leadership. I'm also visiting schools in my role as Lead Mentor of Leicestershire SCITT, and looking forward to marking trainees' first PGCE assignments with Leicester University.

I'm currently also working with schools and the Chartered College as part of their Rethinking Curriculum work, which is enabling leaders to really focus on what matters for their context and their communities.

BOUNDLESS CREATIVITY

I've been asked to speak at BrewEd Wakefield about the power of Playful Curiosity and Lego Serious Play for enabling creative thinking, emotional intelligence, purpose and resilient decision making for students and staff.

I have a number of conference sessions next year and I'm looking forward to enabling learning in a variety of sessions, including sharing my work in active approaches to texts and leading the teaching of Shakespeare.

Boundless Wellbeing

While some people consider coaching to be primarily performance related, it can be a real chance to reflect and connect with what matters. Personal and professional transformation can be far-reaching. I have a couple of spaces for individuals in 2024, as well as a programme starting at the end of January.

My learning

My learning continues! I've been working with the Resilient Leaders Elements team on their Resilient Leadership in Action Programme, which enables organisations to develop coherent and resilient leadership across teams. I've also developed an approach that aligns the Headteacher standards to the RLE profile and underpins opportunities for using this in appraisal and professional development for schools.

In addition to this, I've started my ICF coaching accreditation and produced my coaching manifesto. I'm interested in how i can support you and your team, and how my skills can support you.

Boundless Wellbeing Winners

I've worked with many of you, and in coaching and supervision, we work on key actions and commitments. Here's your reminder to revisit those. What are you doing to take your next steps towards the life you want? What have you done recently to live your values and realise your vision?

Boundless Leadership Learning

I'm launching my next group programme at the end of January. This will be life changing! I'm embracing my new mantra!

I'm the fire that radiates passion, purpose and love into your life.

Using Resilient Leaders Elements, Positive Intelligence and Lego Serious Play, leaders will develop resilient and versatility to succeed in uncertainty. They will have a clear sense of who they are and what they are motivated to do, ensuring this enables them to thrive in challenging environments. Get in touch to secure a place for you or a colleague.

BOUNDLESS LEARNING

My most recently Blog was a thinkpiece incorporating some key theories in consideration of accountability and how we can own this. It seeks to consider some key questions.

- What is it that you value and measure in terms of the vision you want to embody and create in your team or organisation?
- How does this motivate you and those you work with? When do you celebrate your achievements and how do you lead with a love of purpose rather than fear of external judgement?

Boundless Inspiration offers a framework to support schools in ensuring we value what matters for our learners and enables everyone to work towards this with a unified purpose.
